

The KALAM Cosmological Argument

A SUPER COOL WAY TO SHOW GOD EXISTS

WHEN EACH PREMISE IS TRUE & THE ARGUMENT'S FORM IS VALID THE CONCLUSION IS NECESSARILY TRUE!

Whatever begins to exist has a cause.

Yeah, what if something came from nothing?

Remember, nothing means "No Thing". Nothing cannot cause anything.

Wouldn't it be cool if I could just pop into existence?

REMEMBER, NOT EVEN UNICORNS "POP" INTO EXISTENCE, SO CERTAINLY NOT UNIVERSES!

YES FOR THE KALAM
The universe began to exist.

BIG BANG!

Time had to have a "beginning"!

Someone or something had to "light" the fuse that set off the Big Bang!

Think of a rocket on a launch pad. If the countdown went on forever, you could never get to BLAST OFF!

Therefore, the universe had a cause.

This cause would be...

- ☒ Outside space & time
- ☒ Immaterial & uncaused
- ☒ Incredibly powerful
- ☒ Personal mind

Why personal mind?

Because all that's left is abstract objects like numbers or personal mind...

And abstract objects cannot create anything. Only Mind can do that!!!
